Some get a kick out of life by fooling around the rear end of a mule.

Education has doubtless ruled many a potential writer of popular songs.

Latin-American politics is cleaner than ours. They sling lead instead of mud.

Many a fellow pays a lawyer money that would come handy in paying the bill.

A preacher declares that "silence is sometimes sin." Few Senators transgress that law, however.

An Ontario farmer raised 1,000 bushels of carrots on an acre. Now if they were only fit for food!

Americans may have little respect for law, but a good many breathe easier after the grand jury dismisses.

That Wisconsin boy who won a logrolling contest recently will not could wind up in Congress some day.

The Weather Bureau has been in existence more than 40 years, but it hasn't improved the weather very much.

If the physicians can't split the atom they might let some of their theological half-siblings have a try at it.

A judge decides that motorists must not run over dogs. Maybe in time the ruling will be extended to pedestrians.

A lady author recommends letter writing as "a safety valve for lonely farm women." But her proved unsafe for a lot of lonely city men.

TWO RAILROAD MEN
Back in the early '90s two boys were holding down their first railroad jobs in the west. Paul Shoup was a clerk in the Santa Fe office.
Joseph H. Dyers was a section laborer on the Southern Pacific. They have been "working on the railroad" ever since, but not as the old song goes, "Just to pass the time away."

Shoup became a telegraph operator, going to the Southern Pacific then assistant general passenger agent, and so on. Dyers was promoted to freight classifier. But his major and other more responsible offices in turn. Probably neither knew where he was going but both were on their way.

Finally Paul Shoup became president and Joseph H. Dyers became vice-president of the entire Southwestern Pacific System. There is a young man in this little story for any young man who can see it.

THE FIRST CONGRESS
The convening of the Seventy-second Congress on December 7 brings forth some interesting facts from the Washington Bicentennial Commission about the meeting in Federal Hall, New York City, of the First United States Congress.

Congress was to open on March 4, 1789, but on that day only 52 members of Congress were present, eight Senators and thirty-three representatives. The quorum for either House.

Day after day, week after week, the members present met in Federal Hall, which had been fitted up for their accommodation. But they were not until the first day of April that any business could be done.

Some of the most interesting facts concerning the first Congress are related by Arthur Graham in Popular Science Monthly, illustrating Voltaire's saying that "it is the dangerouslest expectation that someone can do." Among others he relates the following:

P. Wiggins, Kansas aviator, was killed by a railroader who had somehow gotten into his plane, while flying at an altitude of about a mile, but landed and obtained treatment in time to save his life.

Cesar Boltram, of Lyons, France, was struck by lightning five times during his lifetime, yet finally died of pneumonia.

Some years ago General Castillano, a Nicaraguan revolutionist, was struck by a falling meteor while sitting in his tent one night and was killed. His superstitious soldiers believed that the Almighty had thus shown disapproval of his cause, so they abandoned the revolution.

Mathematicians have figured that an American will be struck by lightning about once every 9,500 years on an average. About 30, 000 Americans are killed every year by accidents occurring in and near by automobiles.

Most ironical of the accidents encountered by Mr. Graham was that which a man was painfully injured by the falling of a horse shoe had nailed over his door for luck.

MECON COUNTY (Alabama) demonstration club women won first prize on 10 number of containers of Jellies, jams, and preserves at the International Canning Conducted recently at Aurora, Ill.
The prize was $100.00.
